Japanese Reject Russian Protest

Tokyo Claims Soviet Was Aggressor In Another Siberian Border Clash

TOKYO, July 30—(AP)—Japan today rejected a protest by the soviet government over a clash between Russian and Japanese border patrols on the frontier between Manchoukuo and Russian Siberia on grounds that Russia was the aggressor.

Kensuke Horinouchi, vice minister of foreign affairs, declared soviet forces invaded Manchoukuo territory.

(The soviet protest was over the fourth clash on the disputed, ill-defined Siberian border this month. It occurred yesterday near Possiet bay, close to the borders of Siberia, Japanese Korea and Manchoukuo. Russia contended soviet guards drove "Japanese-Manchurian" forces from Russian soil.)

Punishment Demanded.

MOSCOW, July 30—(AP)—A vigorous soviet protest against new "provocations by Japanese-Manchurian militarists" in the fourth Siberian border clash this month was before the Japanese government today.

The note, which the Russian charge d'affaires in Tokyo was told to give Tokyo officials, demanded punishment of the guilty, and warned "that the soviet government places the entire responsibility for consequences of these actions on organs of the Japanese government in Manchuria."

The incident occurred near Possiet bay, near the junction of borders of Siberia, Japanese Korea and Japanese-supported Manchoukuo (Manchuria) and in the region where Japanese declared soviet troops violated the Manchoukuo frontier July 11. That

Safety Council Approves Tests

Caster Report Says 'Whispered' Rumors About Rejected Cars Are Baseless

The Lincoln Safety Council entered the vehicle testing controversy Saturday with a blanket endorsement of equipment and personnel after investigating the station and getting information about rejected cars.

The report, made by M. T. Caster, president, and Lieutenant Richard Bennett, reads, in part: "After making extensive observation and analysis of the causes of failure of 100 vehicles, the Lincoln Safety Council recommends most heartily the equipment provided for testing vehicles at the Lincoln municipal vehicle testing station and commends the personnel of the station upon the interest that they take in the jobs assigned, namely, helping to eliminate defective and dangerous equipment and thereby reduce the terrific toll of accidents on our streets and highways."

Hit Whispering Campaign.

Slapping at "whispered rumors" that the inspecting station was demanding new tires and other equipment, the report continued, "in our observation the attention of some drivers was called to the fact that their tires were not entirely safe and should be watched carefully, but there is no provision in the law under which a car may be condemned because of the condition of its tires, the whispering campaign to the contrary notwithstanding.' '

Of the 100 rejected cars investigated, the committee found that 59 had faulty brakes; 54 bad lights; 18 exhaust leaks; 17 bad wheel alignments; 9 steering defects; 5 wrong registration; 2 defective windshield wipers; 1 bad mirror; and 1 bad glass.

Citing examples of defects that caused rejections and the demonstrations made to convince the owners, the committee reported that the tolerance of wheel alignment was far too great for economical operation of the car and the tolerance in other respects is "very liberal."

Upswing Shown In Some Lines

Tenth District Wholesale Sales Up Ten Per-cent In June

The Tenth Federal Reserve district reported in its June business survey Saturday increases in lumber sales, hog marketings and slaughter, and residential building compared with figures of the same month a year ago.

During June the survey said, wholesale sales in the district, including Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming, showed a 10 per cent gain, but other lines of business generally showed decreases. Dollar volume of sales at department stores showed less than the usual seasonal decline.

In Nebraska, employment was up .9 of one per cent and payrolls advanced .4 of one per cent for the first six months of this year compared with last.

Though hog production in the district is still far below the 1932-33 average, the survey observed: "A rather sharp upswing in hog production in the district this year is in prospect. The spring pig crop was 19 per cent larger than last year and the number of sows to farrow in the fall indicated as 14 per cent larger." In Nebraska, "pigs saved" this year compared favorably with last, 2,128 to 1,876.

"The crop situation continues highly favorable due to good rains," the report states.

Formerly Lincoln Pastor And Once President Of York College

WINFIELD, Kas., July 30—(AP)—Dr. William O. Jones, 63, former president of the University of Kansas City and of York, Neb., college, died here today following a long illness. Dr. Jones, a retired United Brethren minister, held pastorships at Lincoln Neb., Omaha and Winfield.

Dr. Jones was pastor of the Caldwell Memorial church for five years and served as superintendent of the Nebraska Conference of the United Brethren church. He held a pastorate at Omaha for several years and then accepted the presidency of York college in 1921.

After three years at York, Dr. Jones took over the presidency of Kansas City college. He was named pastor of the Winfield pastorate and his health broke almost immediately. Suffering from heart trouble, Dr. Jones was ailing for nearly a year, said Rev. Gilbert T. Kirkpatrick's Death Is Held Due Accident

Dawson County Man's Skull Was Fractured In An Altercation With Cozad Officer

COZAD, Neb., July 30—(AP)—A coroner's jury held here that Orville Kirkpatrick, 57, president of the Dawson County Taxpayers' league, died Thursday of injuries inflicted accidentally in an altercation with Percy Cloyd, Cozad policeman.

Kirkpatrick, accosted by Cloyd for allegedly parking his truck in violation of a Cozad traffic law, got into an argument with the officer and attempted to resist arrest, County Attorney Elbert H. Smith said. During the ensuing altercation, Kirkpatrick fell over backward, striking his head on the pavement and fracturing his skull. He died a few minutes later. The jury, summoned by Smith, held the injuries were not inflicted feloniously.

Cloyd, testifying at the inquest, declared Kirkpatrick attempted to strike him with a logging chain and that he pushed him away, causing the farmer to fall over backwards.

Given Warning.

Clyd also testified that a week ago Kirkpatrick parked his truck on the main street in violation of the traffic ordinance, and was warned not to repeat the offense.

Kirkpatrick then published in a Gothenburg paper an account of the dispute and said he would horsewhip the officer if he attempted to restrain him from parking in the same place in the future.

Kirkpatrick, whose home was 10 miles north of here, had spent a large portion of his time in recent months in taxpayers league organization work and was a frequent visitor to Cozad. Surviving are his widow and two sons, all living in California.

Funeral services will be held here Sunday.

Police Inspector Franks said Thompson's wife, Donna, advised her husband to enter the plea of guilty.

"It was too much whisky," Thompson told the court. "I don't remember much. I don't know even if it was a man or woman I socked. This is the only time I've been drunk since I got out last February."

Miss Lorentzen told police her assailant stepped out of an automobile, followed her for a short distance, struck her in the abdomen and then reached for her throat. She screamed for help, and the attacker ran.

HAWAII CLIPPER MISSING WITH 15 ABOARD

Search Continues But Hope Wanes For Lost Clipper

GASOLINE TRACES FOUND IN THICK OIL SPOT AT SEA

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP)—War department advices from Manila said today the army transport Meigs found traces of gasoline in the "thick oil area" discovered near where the missing Hawaii clipper was last reported.

The message from the army signal corps at Manila said:

"5:10 p. m. (Manila time) Meigs, in latitude 12.1 north and longitude 130.33 east, obtained samples of water which revealed gas and lubricating oil.

"Meigs investigated until dark and will continue search night with searchlights remaining in present position until daylight when it will continue investigation.

"Further report will follow as situation develops."

Thick Oil Slick On Course of Missing Ship Raises Fears She Plunged.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30—(AP)—Pan-American Airways officials said today they considered the finding of an oil patch on the Guam to Manila course of the missing Hawaii Clipper "significant, but not conclusive."

The search will continue, the company said.

The statement was a company confirmation of an earlier report from the army transport Meigs stating a large patch of oil had been found on the sea, indicating the luxurious flying boat may have plunged into the ocean 500 miles from Manila.

The company said its operations department in Manila reported samples of the water showed traces of gasoline and lubricating oil.

A report today from the commandant of the 16th naval district at Cavite, Luzon, said three destroyers would start eastward at daylight, Manila time, about 3 p. m., C. S. T., and that eight vessels of the submarine squadron would join the search.

No Mention of Wreckage.

MANILA, July 30—(AP)—The army transport Meigs found a large patch of oil on the surface of the Pacific ocean today, indicating the missing Hawaii clipper may have plunged into the sea 500 miles from Manila.

The Meigs made no mention of sighting any wreckage from the luxurious flying boat which disappeared with 15 men on a flight from Guam to Manila Friday.

Two lifeboats were put out by the transport to search the telltale oil slick but were recalled at nightfall. The transport stood by where the slick was found, intending to resume search at dawn Sunday. (Saturday afternoon in the United States.)

Her searchlights played on the surrounding sea but her captain said he did not expect much to be accomplished before daylight.

Patch "Quite Large."

The Meigs said the coating of heavy oil was about 1,500 feet in circumference, which experts said was "quite large" for a plane the size of the clipper.

Roosevelt Faces Test In Primary Vote Next Week

Administration May Gain Greatest Victory Or Defeat In Kentucky

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration stands to gain great political advantages or lose considerable prestige in democratic primary elections next week.

Six of the 15 primaries scheduled during August will be held within five days. Senate nominations are at stake in Kansas, Missouri, Tennessee and Kentucky, but primaries in Virginia and West Virginia involve only representatives.

The outcome of two senatorial contests on Tuesday appears reasonably predictable. Capital politicians believe Senator George McGill, who has only nominal opposition, will win in Kansas, and they expect the Missouri nomination to go to Bennett Champ Clark, an anti-administration leader in the senate.

Thus in the first two major primaries the administration should break about even with the conservative democratic forces.

Tennessee Primary Thursday.

The third senatorial primary of the week will be Thursday in Tennessee. Senator George L. Berry, traditionally an ardent administrationist but recently cool toward the new deal, is seeking the nomination against several opponents.

The administration has stayed scrupulously out of the Tennessee situation, complicated by a state organization fight. The senate campaign expenditures committee severely criticized all factions in a statement this week.

It is in the Kentucky race that the white house may achieve its greatest victory or suffer its worst defeat because President Roosevelt has asked in no uncertain terms for the renomination of Senate Majority Leader Barkley over his opponent. Gov. A. B. Chandler.

G. O. P. Asks Winrod Defeat.

The republican national leadership, heretofore wary of primary intervention, has taken up a vulnerable position in Kansas in an effort to block the nomination of the Rev. Gerald B. Winrod of Wichita, for McGill's senate seat. Other republican aspirants include former Gov. Clyde M. Reed and Dallas W. Knapp.

The week's other important republican senatorial primary will be in Missouri, where former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield seeks the nomination in opposition to Ray E. White, St. Louis county real estate dealer.

Virginia and West Virginia also will hold their primaries Tuesday. The new deal has developed as an issue in the only two congressional races in Virginia, seven of the nine representatives being unopposed.

Three of West Virginia's six democratic representatives have opposition.

Testifies Strikers Confessed Bombings

OMAHA, July 30—(AP)—Trial Examiner R. N. Denham deferred a ruling on whether to accept statements of alleged participants in street car strike violence here as evidence in a hearing on union charges the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company discriminated against the strikers.

Detective Inspector Franks testified several men arrested after bombings during the 1935 labor dispute signed statements admitting their participation. The statements were offered in evidence by George DeLacy, street car company attorney, in an attempt to show the men were disqualified for consideration of reinstatement after the strike, and to challenge the Amalgamated Street Railway Workers union's contention it is an "appropriate" unit for collective bargaining.

Franks said the men who gave him the statements had been bound over to District court but the cases had never been called.

EPPLEY HOTELS WILL APPEAL ASSESSMENT

C. J. Campbell, attorney for the Epley Hotels Co., declared Saturday that an appeal will be made to the District court next week objecting to the findings of the city and county boards of equalization on the property of the Lincoln and Capital hotels.

Transcript for the appeal was being prepared Saturday at the office of the city clerk.

The city fixed the valuation of the Lincoln hotel and ground at $244,000, cutting it from $272,950; and left the valuation of the Capital property at $44,900 for the land and $246,400 for the improvements. The county valuation on the Lincoln property, as contained in records at the city clerk's office, is $200,000; and the Capital is $284,400.

Formal notice of intention by the hotels company to appeal from the decision of the board of equalization had not been filed with the city clerk at noon.

LINCOLN-CRETE ROAD BIDS ARE REJECTED

State Engineer A. C. Tilley announced Saturday final rejection of all bids received for construction of 13.8 miles of stabilized soil base and bituminous mat on the Lincoln-Crete road, No. 33, near Crete.

Tilley said that all bids were made on the basis of the cost of shipping gravel while it is the opinion of the department that gravel can be obtained in the vicinity of the project which will result in a much lower cost than proposed in the bids.

The project, it is expected, will be again offered for bidding at a later letting this year.

ORDER REFERENDUM ON POTATO CONTROL

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP) — The agricultural adjustment administration ordered today a referendum in 15 late potato producing states to determine whether producers favor a program designed to keep cull potatoes off the market.

States in which the referendum will be held between August 19 and 24 are Maine, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon, Washington and California.

The proposed four year marketing program would set up a joint federal-state system of inspection of potatoes for interstate shipment. The purpose, officials explained, is to keep low grade potatoes from flooding markets and depressing prices. It also would give the AAA authority to limit interstate shipment of potatoes other than culls in years of large surpluses.

An order requiring growers and handlers to comply with the program will be issued, the AAA said, if favored by two-thirds of the voting growers either by number or by volume of potatoes produced, and if handlers, representing 50 per cent of the volume of potatoes shipped, sign an agreement to abide by it.

Cook pleaded guilty to a speeding charge and was fined $2 and costs.

One-day Record . . .

The dream of every fisherman, to catch some day a record fish, no matter what kind, came true last August for Mary C. Potter, sportswoman, when she hooked onto 757 pounds of fighting bluefin tuna off Nova Scotia.

For more than two hours the tuna flashed through the water, fighting to the last ounce of its strength. Valiantly Mary clung to her rod and reel, finally pumped and wound the tuna in.

Too large to be hauled aboard, the fish was made fast and towed ashore. It was found to have surpassed by eight pounds the former bluefin tuna record of 749 pounds held by Mrs. Faith Locke since 1936.

Meanwhile another woman at another pole on the stern of another boat was at that moment cruising over the same waters. Mrs. William Chisholm II hooked and landed a second tuna just 30 hours after Mary's catch . . . four pounds larger than Mary's!

Invasion of England . . .

Little remembered today because of overshadowing events of that time, a German submarine invasion of England actually took place during the World war.

In May, 1918, a German "sub" stranded near Start Point, Sanday, in the Orkneys; to lighten the crew jettisoned all its torpedoes and hundreds of shells and cartridges.

They managed to refloat the submarine and escape. While ashore, the crew members were watched by a number of crofters who supposed them to be British.

Srb Says Gasoline Tax Is Split 50-40

Denies Radke's Charge 60 Cents Goes For Roads, 40 For Assistance

Statement made Friday by Franz Radke, democratic candidate for governor, that the extra one-cent gasoline tax dollar is divided 40 cents for assistance and 60 cents for roads, was erroneous, according to Hugh Srb, chief clerk of the state legislature.

"After the legislature passed a bill splitting the extra one-cent tax 50-50," Srb said, "and when the appropriation bill was passed it made a similar provision but an error was made by one of the legislative employes in compiling the law passed by the legislature. By that error 40 cents of the dollar goes to assistance, instead of 50 cents, and only 50 cents goes to the highway department.

"That means," Srb explained, "that 10 cents out of each dollar, which was intended for state assistance is not appropriated for any purpose, and, without doubt the next legislature will right the error and appropriate it for state assistance before the close of the present biennium if it is needed to make up the $7,500,000 appropriated for state assistance."

"It was purely an error on the part of an employe," he added, "and the highway department does not get 60 cents out of each dollar raised by the one-cent extra tax as was stated."

"As a matter of fact," Srb said, "the bill was drafted and signed and the members of the legislature had gone home before the error was discovered."

Radke criticized the governor for signing the bill.

Truck Rates On Ice Cream, Mix Suspended

The state railway commission Saturday suspended its prescribed truck rates on ice cream and mix and scheduled a hearing on the tariff for Sept. 21, 1938.

The suspension was made, the commission said, after creameries protested the prescribed rate was too high. Until the matter is settled, the commission designated the rates existing prior to the fixing of truck tariffs as the law rate. The truck rate tariff became effective last February.

Previously set for Sept. 21 was a hearing on sour cream and dairy products rates. The prescribed rates on those commodities have also been suspended.

Gov. Earle's Aides Block Court Probe

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 30—(AP)—Pennsylvania's general assembly today stopped a grand jury investigation of blackmail, coercion and extortion charges leveled at democratic Gov. George H. Earle and 13 associates and turned the inquiry over to a legislative committee.

The administration whipped through the democratic-controlled general assembly in a dawn session, four measures to:

Set up a legislative investigation with the power of subpoena.

Establish the legislature as the only body with authority to investigate civil officers subject to impeachment.

Give the state's attorney general, appointed by the governor, the right to supersede a district attorney in cases where civil officers were accused of misconduct.

Speaker to Name Probers.

The committee to conduct the inquiry will be appointed Tuesday by Speaker Roy E. Furman.

The legislation passed the state senate finally after a three-hour debate. The house a short time later concurred in minor amendments. Gov. Earle waited in his office until 3:30 a. m. (C. S. T.) to sign the measures.

The bills were started only last Monday night in the special session of the legislature, called by Earle primarily to checkmate the grand jury.

They are in a West Point hospital.

PLAN HALSEY FOREST FIELD DAY OUTING

The annual picnic and field day at the Nebraska national forest at Halsey will be held Sept. 18, Victor J. Dayharsh, forest superintendent, announced Saturday following a conference with officials at the college of agriculture.

More than 1,000 persons are expected to attend the outing. Dayharsh said that survival of trees planted during the past year has been good. About 97 acres were planted. Moisture conditions up to July 1 were favorable, but precipitation has been light since then.

The college extension service will co-operate with the Nebraska National Forest in putting on the picnic. A part in the program will be taken by 4-H club members.

Fierce Slaughter Is Under Way In Yangtze Valley

SHANGHAI, July 30—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese war dispatches agreed today that a fierce slaughter was in progress in the bitterly-contested Yangtze valley below Hankow.

Japanese maintained generally that their infantry and airforce were advancing full speed westward from Kiuktang, a Yangtze river port they occupied Tuesday, toward the provisional Chinese capital 135 miles distant.

Chinese, however, asserted their counter-attacks were effective on the south bank of the stream near Hukow and behind Japanese lines, impeding the invaders.

At Kuling, a mountain resort 14 miles from Kiukiang, Japanese planes were said to be dropping food supplies by parachute to 150 foreigners, including 50 Americans, marooned there. A Japanese spokesman said Chinese destroyed or removed all provisions in their retreat from Kiukiang, Kuling's normal source of supplies.

Morgan Explains How Insane Care Provided

Addition To Be Made To State Levy By County Board To Raise Necessary Funds

The Lancaster county commissioners and County Clerk Morgan explained Saturday that the state levy of 2.68 mills which has been fixed by the state board of equalization will not represent the entire state tax burden as far as the county is concerned.

In addition to the $345,669 which the 2.68 mill levy will raise for state purposes, the county has to raise $57,009.56 by state levy to care for patients which it has in state hospitals.

Clerk Morgan declared that a levy of .442 mills will be necessary to raise the funds to pay for the insane, and that will bring the Lancaster county state levy to 3.122 mills—to raise a total of $402,678.56.

More Than 1937.

"This," he declared, "will be $62,918.56 more than was raised in the county for the state levy in 1937, when the amount was $339,760 on a levy of 2.64 mills."

The money for the county's share of paying for the care of insane will be collected this year for the first time. It was provided for in L. B. 569, passed with an emergency clause on May 15, 1937, but collection was not made last year when proper notice was not given.

Commissioner Johnson, chairman of the county board, declared that the group will meet at 9 o'clock Monday morning to modify and adopt the county budget and to consider the county levy.

Large Crowd Expected At Annual Sheep Show

Plans for the second annual Nebraska sheep show at the fairgrounds August 5 are nearing completion, Prof. M. A. Alexander of the animal husbandry department announced Saturday. Interest in livestock rehabilitation on the state's farms is expected to draw a large crowd.

Prof. R. F. Cox, of Kansas State college, will judge the sheep in the morning and will speak on "Getting Higher Prices for Lambs." Prof. Cox is in charge of experimental sheep work at Kansas State, last year showing a grand champion wether.

Most of the state's sheep breeders will be represented, Prof. Alexander said. A large silver trophy goes to the breeder who owns the sweepstakes ram. It is offered by the Nebraska Livestock Breeders' association and becomes the permanent property of the breeder winning it three consecutive times.

Year's Decline In Agricultural Prices Halts; Better Days Seen

WASHINGTON, July 30—(AP)—Administration experts predicted today that "better days" were ahead for the nation's farmers as a year's decline in agricultural prices came to a halt.

At the lowest point in four years on June 15, the general level of agricultural prices advanced 3 per cent by July 15, the bureau of agricultural economics reported. Virtually all commodities shared in the upturn except grains.

Agriculture department economists attributed the upswing principally to an improvement in the general economic situation both in this country and abroad. They cited increased sales in cotton textile goods and prospects for a smaller crop this year as factors largely responsible for a 5 per cent advance in prices of cotton.

The continued decline in wheat prices was attributed to prospects for the second largest crop in this country and the largest world crop. The average price received by farmers dropped from 69 cents a bushel on June 15 to 60 cents on July 15.

AAA officials expressed the belief, however, that government wheat loans soon to be released will keep prices from going much lower. The loan rate will average about 59 cents a bushel.

Department economists said prices of goods farmers buy declined almost 1 per cent during the month, helping to give the farm dollar about 4 per cent more buying power.

Scotts Bluff County Commissioners Sued

Terry Carpenter Claims They Allowed Selves Excessive Pay

GERING, Neb., July 30—(AP)—Terry Carpenter, Scottsbluff oilman and candidate for lieutenant governor, has filed suit here as a "taxpayer and freeholder" against the Scotts Bluff county commissioners, charging them with "conspiring with one another to pay themselves illegal salaries." He asked an accounting.

Carpenter alleges also the commissioners "knowingly, illegally and corruptly" paid to Robert W. Patterson, law partner of County Attorney Rush Clarke, "fictitious claims as salary as clerk to county attorney."

The commissioners, Carpenter alleges, have paid themselves $1,500 a year salaries "without authority of law and without itemized statement showing the time they were necessarily employed in duties of offices." He asserts the claims allowed to themselves did not "represent $5 per day fee they were entitled to receive, plus mileage at five cents per mile."

The Scottsbluff man asserts Patterson was duly appointed deputy county attorney, but that under Nebraska law was not entitled to receive any compensation whatsoever. He alleges the commissioners "upon claims filed with them by Patterson for salary as clerk to county attorney have allowed him $125 a month."

Two of the commissioners, J. Ned Allison and G. M. Chabill seek re-election. The third, O. P. Burrows holds over. Clarke is a candidate for re-election.

SEARCH IN VAIN FOR TRACK SLEEPER

Any old port in a storm might have been the motto of an inebriated man who lay down on the Missouri Pacific tracks near Eighth and Vine streets for a rest Friday night. There were two excellent reasons why it was a god thing for the man that he only reclined for a few minutes.

First he was noticed by G. B. Greve, who fearing a holdup, hastened to summon police. They searched unsuccessfully for the man. Next, a short time after a small boy reported seeing him leave his haven of rest, a train roared over the spot.

Dislocated Neck

OMAHA, July 30—(AP)—Catherine May Harnish, nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harnish of Omaha, is being treated at her home for an "out-of-joint" neck, physicians say is the outgrowth of a rheumatic condition. The case has attracted wide attention among medical men here, since the treatment is virtually the same as that prescribed for a patient whose neck has been dislocated by a fall. The child is wearing a plaster cast.

Hopper Damage Less Than 1937

Bare Says Condition Bad Only Few Spots As Corn Enters Critical Stage

Grasshopper damage to the 1938 Nebraska corn crop is not as severe as a year ago, according to O. S. Bare, extension entomologist at the Nebraska college of agriculture. Because the critical period for the development of corn occurs in the next 10 days, however, he urged farmers to continue to scatter poison.

"With the hatch as late as it was this year," he said, "I feel that poisoning should continue during the critical period when the silks are coming out.

"Damage to corn is variable over the state. In spots it is very heavy with silks being destroyed throughout the field. The most damage in the majority of fields though is being done on the outside rows. Damage is the worst from Jefferson county west to Furnas county."

To Make Survey.

Bare said that grasshoppers are a threat to fall seeding of grasses and legumes unless farmers take precautions to poison extensively on areas where seeding is practiced.

Egg laying now is just getting started in Nebraska and will determine the infestation for another year. Bare stated that the annual adult survey would start about the middle of August and continue into September with the egg survey starting immediately thereafter.

M. P. Jones, extension entomologist from the U. S. department of agriculture in Washington, conferred Friday with Bare in reference to the grasshopper situation. Jones said that Nebraska farmers have co-operated splendidly in the fight against the pests. He plans to go into the fields with Bare to observe conditions.

The law of gravitation was discovered by Sir Isaac Newton in 1687.

THIRD TERM

THINGS are not always what they seem to be in politics. This augmented speculation of recent days, concerning President Roosevelt's plans two years hence in 1940, bears the obvious purpose of endeavoring to "smoke him out" but that is not all the game if it is any part of it. Mr. Roosevelt has two more years to deal with congress. If sufficient opposition can be developed, both in the republican and in the democratic ranks, to block the White House in its efforts and policies, the New Deal died not when the time arrives for Mr. Roosevelt to retire on New Year's Day in 1941 but in early June of 1938, when a congress, amidst hilarious scenes, terminated its labors.

THAT is the game. If the conservative elements, including Republican National Chairman John Hamilton, Senator Vandenburg of Michgan, and a sullen, resentful group within the democratic party can "smoke" Mr. Roosevelt out now to a declaration of an intention to retire from office, they have their battle won. It isn't human nature to follow the leadership of one shortly to abdicate. It is off with the old and on with the new. That is the importance of these congressional elections. In the belief that Mr. Roosevelt's personal popularity is at the lowest ebb since he became president the conservatives are pounding the third term issue not that it has any material bearing upon what will happen in 1940 but that it does have a very important relationship to the next congress which convenes.

WHATEVER might be Mr. Roosevelt's intentions, not even the most bungling amateur in politics would get so far out in front to permit himself to be a target for all of his enemies for two years. The president is in control of the party machinery and if his ambitions led him to a third term his fight for the nomination would be a short one. The stake at this time is control of the next congress; a fight to elect a sufficient number of conservatives to produce what is not an unfamiliar picture in American politics—a stalemate between the White House and the legislative branch. Those who want to see Mr. Roosevelt hog-tied would welcome it—a 2-year deadlock between the president and the congress—punishing as it is and costly as it is.

UNDER the guise of a so-called "independent" congress, it may succeed. The "rubber stamp" congressman has become a term of reproach under the constant pounding of a press and of an opposition which finds that a convenient and useful method of concealing the real aim. A man goes along not necessarily as a "rubber stamp." He may have his own convictions and views and fight for them stoutly but in the end he is left between the choice of voting for a measure which he does not altogether like or voting against it.

A MAN who aspires to be independent ought to be independent enough to tell exactly what he thinks. By his independence he rejects his obligation to his party to follow its leader. By his independence he insists that he will chart his own course acocrding to the dictates of his conscience. And that is a fine thing in public life. It would make for more honest public service and for more responsible leadership. But the time to assert independence is prior to election and not after all of the advantages of party support and of avowed loyalty to the titular head of the party has been utilized.

HERE is the case of Congressman Luckey of the First Nebraska district. He avows his sympathy for the New Deal. If we understand right he insists he voted for the farm bill, and if he did he should not be criticized as voting against it. The situation may have been this. He may have voted for the bill as it passed the house, and against the bill as it emerged for final vote from the conference committee. He should in justice to himself and to his constituency make the record clear. The wheat growers in this district are taking a real licking on the prices paid for the grain. And the licking that they are taking, unwelcome as the fact may be, grows out of the condition that more wheat was produced than this country could consume or expect to export and collect for that portion of it that was exported to impoverished foreign countries.

THERE is the case of Congressman Coffee. He is a sharp critic of the farm bill. His remedy insofar as he has made it clear, is to seek both new markets and at the same time shut off all foreign import. Maybe Mr. Coffee has discovered a system whereby you can sell always and never buy. If he has then the young man has reached Utopia or at least has arrived at its fringes. He has discovered something about world trade which promises to revolutionize this weary old globe to a far greater degree than science itself. He has chased the rainbow down to earth and found the pot of gold which a delicious old tale says lies hidden there.

* * *

MR. COFFEE is against the farm program. If has a plan which will hold water, in the assertion that he is an independent and in the proud proclamation that he is no "rubber stamp," then he ought to tell the harassed farmers—thousands of whom within his district had to borrow the money in order to put in crops and had to sell the crops for a little less in some instances than the harvesting charge—just what his plan is.

* * *

THE words "independent congress" and "rubber stamp congressmen" are loose terms, so susceptible to elastic interpretations. The real issue is whether these men sympathize with the liberal objectives of endeavoring to equalize the status of industry and agriculture, of encouraging such broad national aims as soil conservation, of casting one's lot with the conservative bloc which would scrap all of this or a leadership, which despite blunders and sad mistakes, will fight on.

Light Housekeeping

THE well-known black bears at Yellowstone park appear to be succumbing to the domestic influence.

According to the park superintendent, the recent trend up there has been as follows: First a Philadelphia tourist lost a percolator, several nested thermos cups and miscellaneous kitchen items. Next a general store near the Canyon ranger station reported the absence of a 15-pound meat grinder.

It looks like the bears plan to hibernate this winter in dens which will be completely furnished and modern in all details. Just the thing for light housekeeping.

The Fremont Tribune

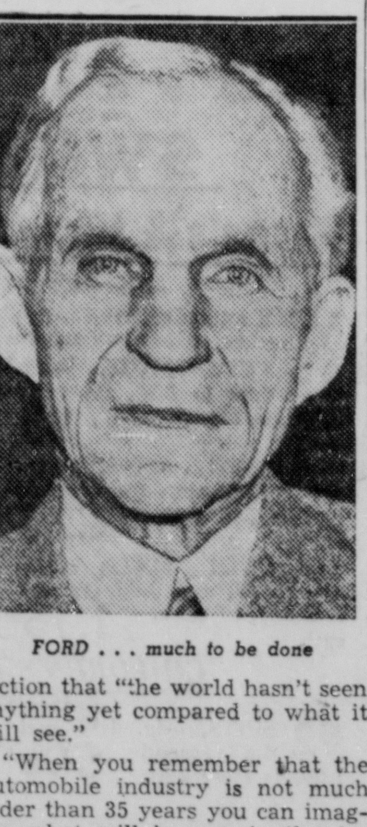
THE HAMMOND family had been in charge of the Fremont Tribune so long there is a wrench in realizing it has passed to new hands. For years the Tribune occupied the energies of Ross Hammond, a militant, two-fisted editor who dressed his deep convictions in appealing clothes.

The Tribune has been a staunch spokesman for conservative thought in a community of splendid spirit and enterprise.

Its new owner has a fine opportunity ahead of him.

Business Will Go Ahead In Fall, Ford Says On His 75th Birthday

Youth Will Be Wise To Look To Land, Which Gives A Double Security, Motor Magnate Asserts; Guest of 8,000 Children at Celebration



FORD . . . much to be done

DETROIT, July 30—(AP)—Henry Ford, who believes that years, as measured by the calendar, "are a joke," rolled back a large part of his own today to be the guest of 8,000 children celebrating his 75th birthday anniversary.

The party was so big it had to be staged in the coliseum building of the Michigan state fair grounds.

Ford demonstrated that he could be "just as big a kid as many of them," by driving an ancient model "T" Ford automobile across the coliseum floor.

Eight thousand voices sang "Happy Birthday to You," and then a float entered bearing a mammoth birthday cake, which was presented to the guest of honor by 75 girls.

Ford's 75th birthday anniversary finds him in excellent health and in the midst of a huge expansion program—a plant enlargement plan involving an outlay of upward of $5,000,000. For Ford the day marked not the ending of a year but the beginning of another.

Much to Be Done.

"There is so much to be done," he said today. "You know I never pay much attention to birthdays. After you've had as many as I have, one more or less isn't of any great consequence."

He made it clear that three-quarters of a century of varying industrial, social and economic changes has not altered his conviction that "the world hasn't seen anything yet compared to what it will see."

"When you remember that the automobile industry is not much older than 35 years you can imagine what will happen in the future," he added. Then, becoming more specific, Ford said:

"I think business will go ahead with stronger strides in September."

Some persons have called Henry Ford a "visionary" but they give the word a serious rather than cynical meaning. Ford admits that he rarely looks backward, and more emphatically asserts that he never worries.

"America," he said, "knows but one direction and that is onward. Time will bring changes, but not in the main course.

"Youth would be wise to look to the land. The land gives us a double security. Every nation is strong and prosperous whose people have kept touch with the land. The time when industry will provide a larger market for the farmer is closer than most people think.

Wage Earners Biggest Asset.

"Our country rises or falls with the position of the wage earner. The needs of the rich alone are not enough to support any basic industry. The largest and most constant market in the world is the wage earning American people. Their needs keep the wheels turning. Hence more production, more employment at high wages, are the supreme opportunity and obligation of American industrial management."

It has been one of the Ford characteristics never to criticise a competitor or his product. This writer asked him recently whether his industrial expansion program indicated a purpose to make the Ford Motor Co. independent of all outside supplies.

"No," Ford said. "There is business enough for all and we want to co-operate. Business is bigger than any one man's interests. Business is a process of give and take; live and let live. It is co-operation between many forces and interests."

PHYSICIAN HAS TASK KEEPING UP WITH CHANGES

The scientific exhibits at the American Medical association are among the most educational features of the meeting. They are all arranged by doctors, and the doctor is required to be in attendance to explain them.

A physician, for instance, will have had an unusually large experience with certain tumors of the adrenal glands. These produce changes in hair development and the quality of the skin. Also when they occur in women, they tend to develop masculine characteristics—deeper voice, growth of beard, etc. In a man the opposite occurs—he loses his beard, and he becomes feminine in characteristics. The doctor who has had so many of these cases has photographs o fthe patients, specimens of the tumors under the microscope, case histories, a moving picture of the operations for removal, and a chart of statistics showing the results of the operations. All these are assembled in a little booth with the doctor in attendance to explain and answer questions. A visitor who spends 15 minutes there comes away with a liberal education in that subject.

Treatment of Fractures.

At another booth was a special exhibit in the treatment of fractures. Here all day long an experienced orthopedic surgeon—there were 56 of them who worked in shifts—demonstrated how to prepare splints and plaster of paris bandages, and on a dummy demonstrated the latest approved methods of treating fractures of the arms and legs and spine. Doctors in the audience were invited to apply bandages themselves under the instruction of these teachers. Any doctor who spent an hour there would be doing his patients a great potential service.

Another special exhibit was on the latest methods of anesthesia. Here all the anesthetics used in surgical operations and during childbirth were exhibited. The apparatus used was demonstrated and the most approved methods of administration described. Charts explaining the advantages and dangers of each anesthetic were hung on the wall, so that even he who saw might read and learn.

This brief and incomplete account will give the reader some idea of the variety of interests, the wide field of usefulness which modern medicine presents. Your family physician has great responsibilities to keep up with the advances in all these fields. Through the help of the American Medical association he is doing it ably. Be sure to stand behind him, and appreciate his interest in your welfare.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

—Old Mother Nature.

Who would or could dig a hole and carry away the earth taken from it so that not a trace remained to attract attention and give away the secret of that hole? Sue tried and tried to think. It was quite by accident that she had found that hole. It was right out in the open lawn some three or four feet from the shrubbery in front of the house. Blades of grass lay over it and nearly hid it, for it was little more than an inch and a half across.

"It just doesn't seem possible," declared Sue as she showed the hole to her cousin.

Tommy's eyes were twinkling. "What doesn't seem possible?" he asked.

"That there isn't so much as a grain of sand around that hole. Why even the tiny holes the ants make are surrounded by little piles of sand," replied Sue.

"Nevertheless some one dug that hole, and very recently, for I am sure it wasn't there when I mowed the lawn the other day," replied Tommy.

"Tommy, you're holding out on me. You know who dug that hole," declared Sue.

"I have a pretty good idea who did it," admitted Tommy.

"Who?" Sue stamped a foot.

"Guess," replied Tommy.

"Stop teasing me, Tommy Brown. You know very well I can't guess. Tell me or I shall think you don't know," was Sue's vigorous response.

"Did you ever hear of any one with pockets in his cheeks?" Tommy asked.

"Of course. Striped Chipmunk has pockets in his cheeks. Tommy! You don't for one minute believe that Striped Chipmunk dug this hole! He's living over under the old stone wall. You told me so yourself." Sue was growing excited.

"So he has been," replied Tommy. "Of course, even a Chipmunk is privileged to change his mind and his abode, too. If Striped Chipmunk himself didn't dig this hole, a member of his family did or I don't know a Chipmunk's hole when I see it."

"It's the pockets in his cheeks!" cried Sammy triumphantly.

"What are you talking about?" demanded Sue.

"The answer to the riddle of what became of the dirt from that hole. He carried it away in those pockets and dumped it somewhere," replied Sammy.

"No, he didn't! No, he didn't! I've just remembered something I read or some one told me!" cried Sue, hopping up and down excitedly.

"What is it?" demanded Sammy.

"That Striped Chipmunk starts his tunnel at a place more or less hidden and as he digs pushes all the earth and sand out there just the same way Johnny Chuck digs his den. But Johnny Chuck uses that hole where he first digs as his main entrance and doesn't care who sees it. Striped Chipmunk uses his first hole only to throw out the earth and sand. He pushes it back along the tunnel he has dug and finally out. When he is all through digging the last thing he does is to make an entrance far from the first one, digging it open from inside. So, of course, there is no sand around it on the outside. Then the first opening where he began digging is closed. Isn't that it, Tommy?" Sue had talked so fast that she was out of breath.

"I have a pretty good idea who did it," admitted Tommy

Tommy nodded. "That is about the way of it," said he. "The earth and sand dug out becomes scattered and after a while there is nothing to show where the original opening was. I suspect that in this case Striped Chipmunk began work somewhere back of those bushes along the house. What he wanted an opening for way out here is beyond me."

"Perhaps he knew that no one would be likely to look for it out here," suggested Sammy.

"That probably is the answer," replied Tommy and, crawling beneath the bushes, began to hunt for the original entrance.

JUST FOLKS

By Edgar A. Guest

SELF-REQUEST.

These are the things I hope for me:
That I may have the strength for duty;
The ear to hear, the eye to see
The song and handiwork of beauty;
The faith for all that falls of sorrow
And some new task to face tomorrow.

These are the joys I ask alone:
The health to do a full day's labor;
A few true friends to call my own;
The good esteem of every neighbor
And tempted by some great or slight thing
Wisdom enough to choose the right thing.

These are the things for me I pray,
Let naught in my supremest folly
Harm any who may cross my way.
Lord, spare my mind from melancholy!
And to each day as I shall live it
Let me some touch of splendor give it.

CALLING ALL DOGS!

By Albert Payson Terhune

A reader sent me this story, whose truth I took the pains to verify:

A dog in a small Middle-West town adopted the children of the local grammar school as his chums. He knew school hours and the recess hour as well as did any of his human playmates. Under a bush he kept hidden his dearest possession — a much-chewed league baseball.

This ball he hid so carefully that nobody could find it. But, every day, from Monday to Friday inclusive, he dug it out of its hiding place, and raced to the schoolhouse with it at the precise moment when the recess bell rang. There, he would lay the treasured ball at the feet of one or another of the boys whom he had elected as his pals. It would be tossed, for him to retrieve; or would be concealed somewhere for him to find.

Tthe Baseball Dog

The recess period was a time of delight and of wild activity for the dog. As soon as the bell rang, summoning his human pals back to their schoolrooms, he would snatch up his ball, with the utmost care, and trot back home with it. He would hide it again, under a bush, where it could not be found except by himself. There it would remain until the next day's recess bell.

Brute instinct or human reasoning?

LOVE ON THE RANGE

BY NELSON C. NYE

The Story So Far.

Someone is out to bust the Rafter T ranch. To help lovely Lee Trone, "Blur" Ankrom takes a job there under the name of Streeter. The range is wiped clean by rustlers, and a man and woman posing as friends of the Trones are revealed as impostors. The man is mysteriously shot, but the girl, Betty, stays on.

Chapter 20.
TWO ADVENTURERS.

Ankrom strode across the yellow sand to the bunkhouse, entered wearily and flung himself down upon the bunk. But sleep was not for him. As he lay there his mind, filled with its many pictures, mocked him. For every picture was a vision of Lee.

He was amazed to learn how effectively his memory had grasped each changing expression of hers, each poise of her slender figure, each graceful move and gesture.

Savagely he snapped his cigarette through the open door. He heard a little gasp and saw a shadow cross the opening. Like a flash he was off the bunk and on his feet, his right hand gripping a leveled pistol. With a sheepish grunt he slipped the weapon back in leather and tossed his hat upon his bunk. The girl from Peso Pinto stood eyeing him gravely.

"May I came in?"

"I reckon," he said ungraciously, "there ain't no one going to stop you."

"You and I," she answered smiling, "have a lot in common. We are both what might be termed adventurers. We're both blunt, possess very little tact, and seldom use what little we have. Right now you're in a vicious mood. I am, too. I get into a vicious mood every time I come in contact with you."

She approached, stood staring at him searchingly, her lips a little parted, her blue eyes big and wide. "Why don't you like me?" she asked him suddenly. "We ought to be friends."

"I'm not good enough for you—I'm not good enough for any woman. I'd ought to be made to wear a sign 'Gunman—Dangerous: Steer Clear' so that folk in passing would not be contaminated. They've got me pegged as a bad one; a killer. I can't deny it for I have killed men. That they were people the world is better off without makes no difference in the fact. There is no place for a woman in the career of a man like me."

"You're bitter," she said softly. "Some woman has hurt you. . . I can see it in your eyes. Whoever she is, she ought to be boiled in lard! Not good enough? What do you mean? In every man's life there is a place for a woman. For the right one," she amended swiftly. "Don't you remember what I told you the other day? For a man—a real man like you—there are lots of women who would go through fire, and be glad of the chance. Women live for love, Abe, and they want strong men to love them."

A silence fell between them, uncomfortable to Ankrom. He could find no words. Why couldn't he transfer the interest he gave Lee to this girl?

Affection, he thought, cannot be transferred at will. He stiffened to a sudden realization. He was in love with Lee; in love with a girl who felt toward him nothing save cold contempt!

His cheeks went white. What a fool he was! Ankrom, the man who had always prided himself on having his emotions under control! In love with a girl who would not have him, and loved by a girl he did not want!

"I'm Afraid."

He brought his thoughts up sharply. Betty was speaking again; what had she been saying? He cleared his throat, hoped his voice would not betray him. "What was that?"

"Why don't you like me?" she repeated, coming closer.

"Did I ever say I didn't?"

"Not in so many words, perhaps. But actions, Abe, speak loudest. There is an air about you—I can feel that you don't like me. What have I ever done to you that you should feel this way about me?" She came to him swiftly, placed a hand upon his shoulder, her eyes searching his face.

He said slowly, "Let me ask you a question, Betty; why did you shoot Kelton Drean?"

"Because he would have shot you," she answered huskily. "He missed the first time, but he would not have missed again."

"Would it have made so much difference to you——?"

"Of course," she broke into his question hurriedly. "I told you a woman will go through fire for the man she loves. Her arms went about him hungrily; there was a sob in her pleading voice: "Tell me that you see some good in me; that I'm not all bad, Abe! Tell me that you love me just a little. . . ."

At that moment Ankrom's eyes were drawn toward the door. He went cold. Lee Trone stood in the opening, her lips parted in a smile.

"Yes, tell her, Abe, by all means. Don't let me spoil your fun."

She was gone before Ankrom found his voice.

Ankrom removed the girl's arms. Not even the twist of her parted lips or the stricken look in her eyes held the power to move him. He clapped his hat upon his head and strode toward the door. The girl from Peso Pinto caught him, whirled him around.

"Wait!" she cried. "You can't go like that! Is there nothing you can say to me? No tiniest ray of——"

There he stopped her with his eyes. "I'm afraid not," he said, and his voice was bleak.

"You're hard!" She reached out to put her hand again upon his shoulder, but his eyes warned her and she dropped the hand impotently to her side. "There . . . there is information I could give you if only you'd treat me a little kinder . . ."

"I don't," Ankrom told her flatly, "buy information in that manner."

He turned to depart but she clutched him desperately. "Wait—I'll tell you anyway!"

"Well?"

"This feud of Trone's—you've been trying to see the purpose back of it." She swallowed uneasily, wet her lips.

"Yes. Do you know?" Ankrom asked.

"—I'm afraid," her voice was thick.

"Afraid?" Ankrom stared. "What are you afraid of?"

"This whole thing."

Ankrom scowled, half turned to leave. "Let it go, then." A mirthless grin flashed across his lips. "I'll be findin' out directly, anyway."

"You'll not find it out in time. Wait, I'll tell you. There are plans afoot to lay tracks across this ranch."

"Tracks? What are you talking about?"

"A railroad—from Amarillo to El Paso!"

"A what!" Ankrom swore and saw the girl's face go deathly white. She took a faltering, backward step and one hand came up before her face as thought to fend off a blow. Ankrom spun and saw behind him a heavy rocklike form. There could be no mistaking that great hunched figure—it belonged to big Tom Ratchford.

"A Pair Of Love Birds."

Ankrom drawled, "Howdy, sheriff. You ought to go in for sleuthing."

A knowing grin bulged Ratchford's beefy face. His eyes passed from man to girl and the grin grew wider. "Say! I'm sure some sorry to come bustin' in on a pair of love birds this way, Streeter. I'll amble over to the house an' wait till you get through."

"You needn't bother." A flush stained Ankrom's cheeks. "You've jumped to false conclusions. We were just having a little talk."

"Oh, sure. Just havin' a little talk. No harm in that. When a gent is talkin' to a lady, though, he can do without an audience. I'll go over to the house. Come over when you're through."

"I'm through now. What did you want? Did you come out to the ranch to see me?"

"Well, yeah, I did. Wanted to put you next to somethin, but it'll keep a spell."

"Won't have to," Ankrom said. "Go ahead, spill it."

"Well," Ratchford led him off through the bunkhouse door. "I think I've got a line on the fella what's after Ol' Man Trone. The fella's name is Claydell."

"The rancher?" Ankrom laughed. "You must be drinkin' a poor brand of whisky!"

Ratchford's glance grew dark. "This is cold turkey. Claydell's the one who's out to smash the Rafter T."

"What for? What's he to gain from a stunt like that?"

"There's a railroad going to cross this ranch——"

"Railroad! Where'd you get that crazy notion?"

"It ain't crazy—leastways, Claydell doesn't think it is. He's figurin' strong on that road goin' through here. Anyhow, that's why he's after this spread."

"How'd you get wise?"

Ratchford's lips curled in a slow grin. "I've got my ear to the ground. I hear a lot of things a fella wouldn't think. The other day, for instance, an ancient history fell into my hands."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah—you ought to see it."

Ankrom's cold look swept the sheriff's mocking features. "Anything personal in that remark?"

Ratchford assumed surprise. "How could there be?"

"Let it ride," Ankrom said. "So you think Claydell's the dog with the brass collar. You think there's a railroad goin' through from Amarillo to El Paso an' that it's going to cross this ranch and that Claydell knows it and wants this property to hold the railroad up. 'Fraid there wouldn't be enough money in it to tempt a fellow like Claydell. I expect mebbe you've missed your guess."

"Missed hell! I know what I'm talkin' about. It'll be worth a cool two hundred grand for that road to lay track through here!"

A moving picture showing various aspects of medical work in the mission hospital in Madura, India, was shown by Dr. Edwin Wilder, returned missionary from India, at Vine Congregational church Friday. It was titled "Mending Men in Madura."

John, Charles, and David Wilder, assisted by several church members, presented a playlet "Mission Work in Madura," written by Mrs. Wilder, preceding the moving picture. Native hand weaving, block printing and carved woodwork were on display. A reception was held on the church lawn after the program.

Dr. Wilder will leave Thursday with his family for Boston and Maine where they will visit relatives. He is on a year's furlough from Madura.

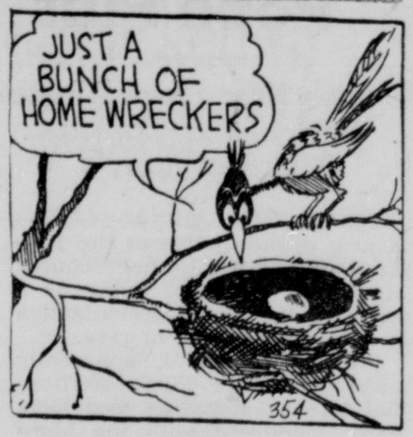
BRAIN TWIZZLERS

By Prof. J. D. Flint



JUST A BUNCH OF HOME WRECKERS
354

A doctor and his wife, a lawyer and his daughter were walking through the woods one day. They were close companions and had become nature-lovers after many walks together through the same woods. On this particular day they came upon a bird's nest in a small tree and decided to take a look at it to become more familiar with the habits of the bird. When they looked into the nest they found that it contained four eggs. They were all tempted to take the eggs but they hated to deprive the mother bird of her chief occupation, caring for the eggs which were soon to hatch, so they just took three eggs and left one in the nest. Each of them wanted an egg so they divided them and each had a whole egg after leaving the one in the nest. How could that be?

Answer To Yesterday's Twizzler.

Mrs. Hi and Mrs. Lo go over together. Mrs. Hi comes back and Mr. Hi goes over. Mrs. Lo comes back and Mrs. Hi and Mrs. Lo go over together again. Mrs. Hi comes back and Lo goes over. Mrs. Lo comes back and Mrs. Hi and Mrs. Lo go over together placing all four across the chasm.

LOCAL AUXILIARY TO SEEK 1939 LEGION MEETING FOR LINCOLN

Plans for the state convention at Fremont were completed by the American Legion auxiliary at the Lincoln hotel Friday. Mrs. A. J. O'Hara, new president, will head the Lincoln contingent of 18.

The auxiliary went on record as favoring the American Legion Lincoln post No. 3 drive to bring the 1939 state convention here and promised to lend its support to the project. Walter Gardner, chairman of the Legion committee on conventions, explained the purpose of the Legion wanting the conclave here and asked the auxiliary's support.

Another citizen at Boys' State will be sponsored next year, in addition to Robert Schlater, this year's member, who was elected one of 24 assistants to the councilors or "hold-over" members for next year's encampment.

Mrs. Walter Jensen was appointed publicity chairman. A by-law to the constitution to the effect that meetings should be held on the second instead of the last Friday in the month was passed. The membership committee reported a 1938 total of 411.

A program was presented by junior auxiliary members, sponsored by Mrs. Jensen, which included piano selections by Marjorie Walthers; a recitation by Jean Austin; tap dance by Frances Wright, accompanied by Phyllis Taylor; and a quartet of Frances Gunderson, Barbara Schlater, Jean Austin, and Isabelle Storch, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Miller.

Favored Stocks Advance Fractions To Point Or More At The Best

Profit Selling Chips Best Marks

NEW YORK, July 30—(AP)—Steels and motors pointed the way for a selective stock market recovery today and favored issues pushed up fractions to a point or more at the best.

The come-back was accomplished on a relatively small volume, however, even for a Saturday session. Transfers were around 350,000 shares. Profit selling near the close chipped down best marks.

Many traders apparently felt the early pressure of dog-day apathy and got a head start on their week-end holiday. The result was that boardrooms were sparsely occupied and the ticker tape frequently loafed.

While leading stocks received a fair share of speculative attention, low priced issues were again the liveliest, most adding small fractions to recent improvement.

Business news, on the whole, was still the main bolstering share influence. But some commentators thought the market might yet be called upon to test the lows of the past week and, while sentiment had lost little of its optimistic tinge, a more pronounced strain of caution was evident in commission houses.

Buying support was accorded U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Briggs Mfg., Yellow Truck, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, U. S. Rubber, Sears-Roebuck, National Cash Register, Commercial Solvents, Coca-Cola, Richfield Oil, Childs Co., Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, American Telephone and Douglas Aircraft.

Bonds and commodities were narrowly mixed.

The curb market ended with minor changes either way. Down a trifle were Aluminum of America, Gulf Oil, Lake Shore Mines and American Cyanamid "B." Electric Bond & Share, Gypsum Lime and Childs Co. preferred did better.

A prop for the steels was found in unofficial estimates of another upturn next week in mill operations.

Most carriers shifted over an indifferent range as indications were that the wage-cut controversy would go to federal mediation. In addition the American Association of Railroads placed net operating income of all class 1 systems for the first half of 1938 at $70,289,305 against $299,466,304 in the same period last year.

Holders of the motors seemingly were inspired by the much brighter outlook for the automobile makers in coming months. R. L. Polk & Co., though, produced figures disclosing new passenger car sales in June dropped to 156,393 units compared with 178,060 in May and 360,236 in June a year ago.

A fall of 15 per cent in wholesale trade during the first six months of the current year was reported by the commerce department, with manufacturers sales off 24 per cent. Merchandising quarters recalled, though, that in the 1937 period wholesale distribution attained its highest level in several years.

Wheat And Corn Prices Decline

CHICAGO, Ill., July 30—(AP)—Trading in wheat was at a low ebb today, being limited practically to evening up and hedging operations and some buying attributed to exporters. The result was a narrow, nervous market, with prices fluctuating over a cent range and closing about ½ cent net lower.

The department of agriculture said stem rust damage in most of the wheat area probably would be light. The first of the August private crop reports indicated a reduction in wheat prospects during July but the figures were about in line with trade expectations.

Closing at the day's lows, wheat was below yesterday's finish, September 67⅝@57¾c, December 69½@⅝c. Corn ¼ to ⅞ cent down, September 56⅝@¾c, December, 53¾@⅞c; oats ¼ to ⅜ cent off.

All trade factors governing wheat price fluctuations today were summed up in an irregular and somewhat nervous market despite an upward trend.

Prices dipped fractionally and then recovered and rose at times about ½ cent.

Holidays at Liverpool today and Monday eliminated guidance from that market but Rotterdam wheat closed unchanged to ⅜c up. Further buying credited ot export interests appeared here.

The local trade had to put its own valuation on latest Russo-Japanese incidents insofar as it may be a market factor, but the indifference shown to other war threats during the past two years did not suggest any particular concern.

Uncertainty as to Canadian crop progress, with private estimates running all the way from less than 300,000,000 bushels to 350,000,000 bushels did not permit establishment of a clear view of Canadian conditions.

Damage from drouth, rust and grasshoppers was believed to be extensive in some districts, and there was no good precipitation the past 24 hours.

Corn prices were fractionally lower most of the session, being influenced by favorable crop conditions and a pause in export business. Oats and rye showed practically no change and provisions were only slightly higher.

Around mid-session, wheat was unchanged to ⅛c higher compared with yesterday's finish, September 68⅛c, December 70¼c, and corn was ⅛ to ½c lower, September 56⅞c, December 54¼c.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW

NEW YORK, July 30—(AP)—Bonds were becalmed in a narrow market today in quiet week-end trading. Minor gains and losses were the rule throughout the list.

Traders followed the listless motions of the stock market as a guide to go slow in pushing the sweeping summer recovery drive. But most second-grade corporate bonds in the trading limelight recently held close to the tops of the advance as hopes for further business improvement continued to dominate sentiment.

A few relatively inactive issues were wide movers. Cleveland Shore Line 4½s jumped 9 on the sale of 2 bonds.

Small gains were recorded in American a Foreign Power 5s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s Illinois Central 4¾s, National dairy 3¾s and Northern Pacific 4s. Offsetting these were minor dips in Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Pacific Telephone 3¼s and Western Union 5s

U. S. treasury and foreign dollar bonds were little changed either way.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, July 29—(AP)—Harvey S. Williams of Harris Upham & Co. says: "After two months of heavy movement, pressure of winter wheat marketing may be expected to lighten materially, and the fact that the total open interest is still below 100 million bushels, following this big movement, would indicate a healthy technical position in our futures market."

Lamson Bros. & Co. report that May wheat future contracts should soon reflect in a degree, the much smaller 1939 domestic wheat crop based on the so-called planned acreage reduction. Therefore while much patience perhaps will be required, accumulations of May wheat around a 70-cent level are suggested.

According to the Uhlmann Grain company, wheat hedging sales will continue as long as a heavy spring crop movement lasts. It is seldom that they reach the peak until about Labor day, September 2, but even after that receipts may continue big for some time.

Upward Trends In Meat Prices Reflect General Increase In Food Costs

CHICAGO, July 30—(AP)—Paralleling a mild upturn of general food costs, prices of some meat cuts have risen slightly from near four-year low levels of earlier this year, a market survey disclosed today.

Gains for a few meats, ranging upward to as much as 18 per cent in the wholesale market during July, appeared mostly in best beef, veal and pork quotations. Most poorer grade cuts and all lamb prices have declined.

Livestock market experts said the trend in meat reflected a general stiffening of food costs. This spring the cost of feeding the family was the lowest in almost four years, having dropped sharply since September, 1937, when it was the highest in six years. Food costs touched the low point in March.

Clipper Searches Find Big Oil Spot

to suggest any other source for the slick, an oil coating such as a plane leaves on the surface of the water when sinking.

The slick was found directly on the course of the 26-ton flying boat. It was sighted approximately 50 miles west by southwest of the last position reported by the clipper at 10:09 p. m. Thursday, C.S.T. This would mean that, if the slick were caused by oil from the Hawaii clipper, the flying boat remained in the air for about 20 minutes after her last radio message.

The lifeboats from the Meigs collected samples of oil from the surface to help determine whether it was from the flying boat.

In Vicinity of Deep Waters.

If the Hawaii clipper sank there, little hope was held of finding the wreckage; for the slick may lay over deep waters, ranging to a depth of 5,352 fathoms. These waters, about 400 miles due east of San Bernardino strait, are among the deepest around the Philippines.

Pan-American airways headquarters in San Francisco held hope the oil was dumped on the surface by the flying boat for emergency landing and the clipper came down safely, subsequently drifting out to sea faster than the oil.

They said the clipper carried heavy "anchor" oil to calm the seas in just such an event. Pan-American men here said they did not know about any "anchor" oil but suggested the clipper might have dumped oil to lessen her load preparatory to alighting.

The spot was directly in line with the huge clipper's southern flying route on the 1,600 mile hop from Guam, last leg of her trans-Pacific journey from California.

Aboard the luxurious Hawaii clipper, one of three sister planes in regular California-Manila service, were passengers:

K. A. Kennedy of Piedmont, Cal., P. A. A. Division traffic manager; Maj. Howard C. French of Portland, Ore.; Dr. Earle B. McKinley, medical school dean at George Washington university and noted authority on leprosy, and Dr. Fred C. Meier, department of agriculture pathologist, both of Washington, D. C.; E. E. Wyman, Curtiss-Wright Aircraft official of New York City; Wah Sung Choy Chinese restaurateur of Jersey City, N. J.

The crew was composed of Capt. Leo Terletsky, ace P. A. A. pilot of Palo Alto, Cal.; First Officer M. A. Walker of Berkeley, Cal.; Second Officer G. M. Davis, Oakland, Cal.; Third Officer J. M. Sauceda, Oakland; Fourth Officer J. W. Jewett, Oakland; Engineer H. L. Cox, Alameda, Cal.; Assistant Engineer T. B. Tatum Honolulu; Radio Officer W. McCarty, Alameda; and Steward I. Parker.

Other Clippers Arrive.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30—(INS)—Two sister ships of the missing Hawaii clipper completed regular flights between the mainland and Honolulu today on schedule.

The Philippine clipper arrived from Honolulu at Alameda airport at 12:38 p. m. (C. S. T.) with nine passengers and a crew of nine.

The China clipper arrived from Alameda airport at Honolulu at 12:03 p. m. (C. S. T.) with eight passengers and a crew of nine.

There were no cancellations, and two passengers were booked after the Hawaii clipper was reported missing.

Mussolini Answers Pope Pius

Denies New Fascist Race Policy Was Copied After Germany's

FORLI, Italy, July 30—(AP)—A new dispute between the Italian state and the Catholic church burst into the open today as a result of the recent promulgation of a fascist doctrine of race.

Premier Mussolini, apparently angered by Pope Pius' assertions that he was imitating nazi Germany, countered with the blunt retort that such a statement was "absurd."

The controversy awakened echoes of the years of friction between the holy see and Italian state which patriotic and devout Italian Catholics hoped had been banished forever by the Lateran treaties of 1929, which Mussolini negotiated with the vatican.

Will "Shoot Straight."

Addressing a group of fascist party officials in camp at Forli, Mussolini asserted, "You know and everyone knows that also on the question of race we will shoot straight.

"To say that fascism has imitated anyone or anything is simply absurd."

L'Osservatore Romano, vatican newspaper, yesterday quoted the pope in discussing the rare doctrine as asking, "Why in the world Italy unfortunately felt the need to imitate Germany?"

The pope was addressing missionary students of 37 nationalities who visited him Thursday at his summer residence, Castel Gandolfo.

Rises Early to Reply.

Mussolini, who left Rome yesterday for his summer place at Rocca Della Caminate, arose early today to make his reply.

At 8 a. m. he went to camp and made an inspection. Then he addressed the fascist officials.

The two sentences from his talk referring to imitation of nazi Germany were distributed by Stefani, official Italian news agency. No further quotes were made available.

The pope in his address referred to the new fascist race doctrine which holds that Jews "do not belong to the Italian race," but did not mention Jews by name.

Jennie Lange Asks City For $5,000 Damages

Two claims aggregating $5,065 have been filed with Clerk Berg against the city. Both are for damages.

Jennie Lange, 2765 Randolph street, has asked for $5,000, because of alleged personal injuries which she says she received in a fall in front of 2727 Randolph street on July 2. Mrs. Paul Beebe, wants $65 because of alleged destruction of a hedge along the alley end of property at 1800 Ryons street.

Jennie Lange declares in her claim that she fell as the result of stepping in a hole in the sidewalk, and charges the city with negligence because of failure to maintain the walk in passable condition. She adds that her injuries caused her heavy expense for hospitalization, medical and nursing fees, great pain and suffering, and financial loss, a consequence of her not being able to go to her place of business.

Iowa-Nebraska Wants Proposal On Purchase Of Plant

YORK, Neb., July 30—(AP)—York councilmen studied today a proposal from L. R. King, Lincoln, president of the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company that the city submit an offer for purchase of the company's York properties. The council took no action on the proposal at a special session yesterday.

The body is empowered to acquire, either by purchase or construction, a generating plant and distribution system. King's letter, however, indicated the company wants an offer for all its holdings, which include generation, distribution, steam heating, gas and ice facilities.

Councilmen conferred recently with Tri-County power and irrigation district representatives relative to purchase of electricity for a distribution system.

The Lincoln Telephone company asked the state railway commission Saturday to approve a new plan for number changes made at the request of the subscriber. Such changes, under the proposed plan, would carry a one dollar charge.

Reduction In Wheat Yield Is Indicated

CHICAGO, July 30—(AP)—The first of the August private crop reports of Chicago experts today indicated a reduction in total United States wheat production prospects during July and an improvement in the corn outlook.

Mrs. E. H. Miller, a widely recognized authority, estimated total wheat production at 910,000,000 bushels compared with the government July 1 forecast of 967,000,000 and her estimate a month ago of 929,000,000. Winter wheat production was placed at 669,000,000 bushels compared with the government's 715,000,000; spring wheat at 241,000,000 against 252,000,000; corn 2,532,000 against 2,482,000,000; oats 1,058,000 against 1,094,000,000; rye 53,000,000 against 51,000,000; barley 257,000,000 against 239,000,000.

The private report said disappointing threshing returns principally in Kansas and Nebraska accounted for the reduction in winter wheat. Kansas showed a loss of 25,000,000 bushels and Nebraska 6,000,000, while improvement was reported in some other states.

BLAZE IN TRAILER IS FATAL TO CHILD

SALEM, N. H., July 30—(AP)—Ruth Chazez, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Chavez, Detroit magicians appearing at Methuen, Mass., died of suffocation early today when she was trapped behind the locked door of a burning trailer. The vehicle caught fire at a camp ground while her parents were away.

Lovell Hamlin, a Rockingham race track employe and fellow trailer camper, was burned and cut on the hands when he broke in a window of the trailer. Efforts to resuscitate the child failed.

Camp Fire Girls Give Venetian Party For Kiwanis Members

That portion of the Blue river which winds its way through Camp Kiwanis, Camp Fire Girls summer resort, was transformed into a Venetian setting Friday evening, for the entertainment of 100 members of the Kiwanis club, and their families. The occasion was the annual visit of the club to the camp.

The central setting of the scene was a garden floating on the stream, the garden being made up of decorated boats. In the garden was a group of more than 40 girls, principals and attendants at a garden wedding. Nuptial music and songs added to the attractiveness of the picture, viewed from the shore of the river.

The pageant followed an afternoon of informal games, and a picnic supper served from one long table. A demonstration of nature study, and bead and raffia work was given at a camp council fire, following the pageant.

SHADOW BOXING

by Jack Hurley

HERE'S a thumbnail sketch of heavyweight championship boxing history, which will serve to answer the queries I have been flooded with since the Louis-Schmeling match.

JACK HURLEY

The first actual heavyweight pugilistic contest on record in this country, took place in 1816, between Jacob Hyer and Tom Beasley. Hyer won and declared himself champion. He never fought again, however, and the "title" was vacant for 25 years, after which his son, Tom, claimed it, and successfully defended it against Yankee Sullivan, an experienced English fighter, whom he knocked out.

There was a lapse until 1869, when Tom Allen of England and Mike McCoole fought near St. Louis, with McCoole winning on a foul in nine rounds. They fought again in 1873, Allen winning this time and regaining the championship. The following year, Allen fought Joe Goss of England near Covington, Ky., Goss winning on a foul in 27 rounds. In 1880, Patty Ryan was declared champion after he defeated Goss in 87 rounds near Collier, W. Va.

RYAN lost his title to John L. Sullivan in nine rounds at Mississippi City, Miss., Feb. 7, 1882. Sullivan defended it against all comers, and received universal recognition as heavyweight champion of the world under the London Prize Ring rules, by defeating Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds at Richbourg, Miss., July 8, 1889, which marked the last of the bare-knuckle fights for the championship.

James J. Corbett won the title from Sullivan on a 21-round knockout, Sept. 7, 1892. Bob Fitzsimmons knocked Corbett out in 14 rounds at Carson City, Nevada, March 17, 1897. James J. Jeffries knocked Fitzsimmons out in 11 rounds at Coney Island, N. Y., June 9, 1899. Jeffries retired in 1905, due to a lack of capable opposition.

The same year, Marvin Hart knocked out Jack Root at Reno, Nevada, and Jeffries, who refereed, presented Hart with his title. In 1906, Tommy Burns defeated Hart in 20 rounds in Los Angeles, and was generally recognized as the titleholder. Jack Johnson technically knocked out Burns in Sydney, Australia, in 1908, and was internationally acclaimed undisputed heavyweight champion of the world on July 4, 1910 at Reno, Nevada, when he knocked out James J. Jeffries in 15 rounds.

JOHNSON held the title until April 5, 1915, when he was knocked out by Jess Willard in 26 rounds at Havana, Cuba. Willard was dethroned in three rounds by Jack Dempsey at Toledo, Ohio, July 4, 1919. Gene Tunney took the title from Dempsey on a 10-round decision, Sept. 23, 1926, at Philadelphia. Tunney retired undefeated in 1928, making necessary an elimination tournament to determine his successor.

June 12, 1930, Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey, the tournament survivors, fought for the title in New York, Schmeling being declared the winner on a foul in four rounds. Schmeling lost the title to Sharkey in 15 rounds June 21, 1932. Primo Carnera knocked out Sharkey in seven rounds June 28, 1933. Max Baer knocked out Carnera in 11 rounds June 14, 1934. Jimmy Braddock won a 15-round decision and the title from Baer June 13, 1935, and Braddock lost the title to Joe Louis on an eight-round knockout June 22, 1937.

MAYBE it was because he could run faster than the others, but Gene Tunney is the only heavyweight champion who never suffered a knockout during his career. Sullivan was knocked out by Corbett; Corbett by Fitzsimmons; Fitzsimmons by Jeffries; Jeffries by Johnson; Johnson by Willard; Willard by Dempsey; Dempsey by Jim Flynn; Schmeling by Gypsy Daniels; Sharkey by Carnera; Carnera by Baer; Baer by Louis; Braddock by Louis and Louis by Schmeling.

Can you name the heavyweight champions who were born in the following cities: Boston; San Francisco; Carroll, Ohio; Galveston, Tex.; Pottawatomie, Kas.; Manassa, Colo.; New York City; Binghamton, N. Y.; Omaha, Neb.; New York City, and Lexington, Ala.? . . . Give up? . . . Then read these names in the order of the above mentioned cities: John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, James J. Jeffries, Jack Johnson, Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey, Max Baer, James J. Braddock and Joe Louis.

Tommy Burns was the smallest man to ever hold the title, standing but 5 feet 7 inches in height . . . Bob Fitzsimmons was the lightest, scaling around 170 pounds . . . John L. Sullivan was never defeated under the London Prize Ring rules, his bout with James J. Corbett being fought under the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

LAWN TENNIS IN LINCOLN TO FLASH NEW CHAMPION

Blues Perform At West Point

Semi-finals in the state American Legion junior baseball tournament will open Sunday at Minden and West Point. The Omaha McDevitts, defending champions, and the Lincoln Blues, 1937 runners-up, are in the field at West Point, which also includes West Point and Falls City. The Minden field includes Minden, Henry, Howells and Broken Bow. Finals will be played Monday.

THRASH PAR IN ST. PAUL OPEN

Trio of Field Go Around Five Strokes Under Perfect Golf.

ST. PAUL, July 30—(INS)—Willie Goggin, California golfing veteran, shared the lead with two virtual unknowns today at the start of the second 18 holes in the $7,500 St. Paul open.

Goggin shot a 67 in yesterday's first round, which was matched by Ernie Harrison of Chicago and Frank Stuhler of Jamaica, N. Y. All three played brilliantly to top the field of nationally known linksmen.

Three Tied for Second.

A three-way tie also held for second place, where stood Tommy Armour of Chicago, Bill Kaiser of Louisville and Harry Bassler of Long Beach, Cal.—all with 68's.

Among the nine golfers one stroke further behind were Harry Cooper, three-time winner of the event, who holds the tourney record of 271 for 72 holes, Johnny Revolta, Bill Meinlein and Ed Dudley.

Sammy Snead, defending champion, who last week won the Chicago open, had a par 72, as did Horton Smith and Ky Laffoon.

The 36-hole final will be played Sunday.

Riggs v. Cooke In Racquet Climax

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 30—(AP)—Elwood Cooke, who was forced to play tennis in Portland, Ore., because he couldn't round up enough "neighborhoods kids" for a baseball game, found himself in the final round of the historic Sea Bright grass court tournament today against an opponent he never has beaten, defending Champion Bobby Riggs.

After having lost to Riggs in the semi-final round of the recent Longwood tournament, the 23-year-old Cooke was not included in the list of seeded players here. But he was in the main spot today aganist Riggs by virtue of successive victories over Frankie Parker and Wilmer Allison.

Riggs, ranking second nationally and a favorite to win his second leg on the Sea Bright bowl, yesterday beat six foot-four inch Frank Kovacs, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-0, while Cooke was polishing off Wilmer Allison, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Alice Marble of San Francisco will seek her third consecutive victory and permanent possession of the bowl tomorrow against Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif. Miss Marble yesterday vanquished Virginia Wolfenden, 6-4, 6-4, while Miss Bundy disposed of Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, 7-5, 6-4.

Canadians Bow To Japs In Cup Match

MONTREAL, July 30—(AP)—Canada is out of Davis cup competition for 1938, but there's evidence that dominion tennis authorities have hopes for the future, despite the natural handicaps that make it well nigh impossible to develop a strong team.

Two veteran Japanese stars, Jiro Yamagishi and Fumiteru Nakano, disposed of the Canadian team in the shortest possible time when they won the opening singles clashes from Bobby Murray of Montreal and Ross Wilson of Toronto and yesterday whipped Wilson and Laird Watt of Montreal, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, in doubles.

Those three straight triumphs qualified Japan to meet the winner of the Australia-Mexico series, now going on at Kansas City, in the American zone final. The final is to be played here next week to increase interest in the game and to give the Canadian players a look at top-flight tennis.

Huston Puts Halpine Out of Title Chase; Takes On Rundle In Sunday's Finals.

By JOHNNY HOWELL.

A NEW city tennis champion will be crowned Sunday afternoon at the Lincoln Tennis club as a result of the Friday defeat of the defending titleist, Paul Halpine. Halpine's defeat came in a four-set match with Johnny Huston, Lincoln high school graduate in June who earned top ranking in state prep circles the past two seasons. Huston will meet Harold Rundle, University of Nebraska netter, Sunday afternoon for the crown.

Wears Champion Down.

Huston, three times state singles champion in high school competition, staged one of the most brilliant exhibitions of his career in his upset of Halpine in the city tournament on the courts of the Lincoln Tennis club in the Friday semi-finals.

Huston, after losing the first set, came back strong to annex the next three sets and also the match, 5-7, 8-6, 6-1, 6-4. Huston's strong net game and his spectacular placements to the far corners of the court were the deciding factors in Halpine's defeat. The first two sets were nip-and-tuck from the beginning, but the strain of the battle began to tell on the veteran who could not stand the torrid pace and slowed up in the last two sets.

Rundle Stops Ankeny.

Harold Rundle, Nebraska U. ace, had little difficulty in downing Harry Ankeny in the other semi-final match, 7-5, 6-3, 6-0. The first set was the only one that had the aspects of a battle. The finals, Johnny Huston vs. Harold Rundle, are scheduled to be played on the Tennis club courts Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Detrich-Peden duo had little trouble handling the best efforts of the Mahood-Mason team in the men's doubles semi-final match that was played late Friday afternoon. Detrich-Peden won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3. They will meet the finalist team of Huston-Rundle for the championship in this division Saturday afternoon at 4:30.

Miss McLaren Champion.

Marian McLaren carried off the champion's crown in the women's singles division Friday afternoon as she defeated Idella Iverson in the finals, 6-0, 6-4. Marian's shots were too tough for Idella to handle. No matches were played in the junior singles or doubles or in the veterans' division. Summary and pairings:

Kingsley, Savage Pass Out Tourney

LONDON, Ont., July 30—(INS)—Sandy Somerville, veteran Canadian star, and Ted Adams, "dark horse" from Columbia, Mo., clashed in the 36-hole final of the Canadian amateur golf championship today on the London Hunt and Country club course.

Sommerville, a six-time winner of the title and pre-tournament favorite, ruled an odds-on favorite to account for his seventh championship.

In yesterday's semi-final round tilts, Sommerville defeated Van Savage of Magna, Utah, 12 and 11, while Adams eliminated Ed Kingsley, also of Magna, on the thirty-sixth hole, one up. Last year's final was won by Freddy Haas.

Malott Steps To New Record

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, July 30—(AP)—One member of the touring American track and field team has earned something that should be seen in the record boks for several years to come.

Running the odd distance of 500 meters in the wind-up of a two-day meet here, Ray Malott, the Stanford university quarter-miler, yesterday clipped a half second off the world standard when he was clocked in 1:01.5. The former mark had stood for four years—since Ben Eastman set it at Oslo— and Malott's likely will last as long.

DIZ ON MOUND AGAINST PHILS

Prince Of Popper-Offers Modestly Admits He Has the Goods.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, with a record of five wins and no losses to flaunt at any who doubt he's still a great pitcher, was called to the Shibe park mound against the Phillies today to hold the Chicago Cubs in the National league pennant race.

Sells Pirates Short.

Three of his fellow hurlers failed to best the last-place home team yesterday, but Dizzy, whose expensive right arm developed a "kink" that kept him out of action for two months, expressed no doubt he would take the Phillies in stride.

Jerome Herman is looking forward to a crack at the league-leading Pirates. He came here Thursday before his teammates just to watch the Buccaneers in action. They kept their winning stride, but Dean, between hot-dogs, confidently predicted:

"Those Pirates ain't so tough. I'll stop them with my dizzy stuff. They're fast-ball hitters."

Over The State.

By ALEXX STODDARD.

NOW that the United States Baseball Congress team has departed for England and possibly other European countries, bookies in the Capital City are heaving a sigh of relief... One of the lads here for the tryouts gave the bookies fits with his uncanny ability to pick winners in horse races at tracks over the country...So the story goes, the youngster collected a neat profit of $55 the first open day he had after arriving in Lincoln ...Then he boosted the total to close to $200 in his remaining time in Lincoln.

AUSTIN WILSON, Lincoln high quarterback in 1936 despite his scant 120 pounds, is visiting friends in Lincoln... "Pee-Wee" moved to San Bernardino, Calif., following his junior year at Lincoln high and wound up his prep career last spring on the coast...Austin competed in football basketball and track for Lincoln high...Fremont will sponsor an amateur boxing show Monday, with LeRoy Durst of Auburn meeting Vic Marker of Scottsbluff and Martin Helzer of Palmer trading with Charley Miegel of Lincoln in the two feature bouts...Twenty-five rounds in all.

CLYDE "DIZZY" DEAN, Lincoln sandlot pitcher, had a few anxious moments Friday night...With a berth clinched on the U. S. Congress baseball team, Dean's backer suddenly withdrew his promised $250 support of Dean, which meant that Clyde must stay at home unless the difference between $75 and the set amount could be obtained...A plea over the loudspeaker at Landis Field during the Robinson-Congress game Friday night brought in about $125...Then Les Mann, boss of the team, informed Dean that he would make the trip and the rest of the money would be raised for him...That was a happy grin that spread all over his face at the end of the game when Mann placed his okay on Dean's inclusion on the squad.

SUNDAY'S baseball roundup: Wahoo can clinch a tie for the Elkhorn Valley title by beating Fremont Sunday at Fremont...Other games are Schuyler at Arlington, Blair at David City and Hooper at Oakland... In the Platte Valley loop, Bennington is at Millard, Wann at Yutan, Papillion at Gretna and Springfield at Louisville...The Eastern Nebraska loop lists Lyons at Bancroft, Tekamah at West Point and Pender at Wisner... Tri-Valley league play includes Craig at Decatur, Uehling at Lyons, Walthill at Emerson... Saunders County Parish schedules show Valparaiso at Prague, Agnew at Creseco, Touhy at Weston and Plasi at Wahoo... Mid-State games are Stanton at Snyder, Dodge at Bellwood, Howells at Schuyler, St. Johns at Rock Creek and Clarkson at Leigh.

THIS department will be silent for one week...Your correspondent will be out of town for that time taking in the sights around Bryce Canyon and Zion Park in southern Utah.

JOHNNY HUSTON.

Huston, of Lincoln, state high school tennis champion the past two years, on Friday placed himself in line to win the city championship by his defeat of Paul Halpine, title defender, in a hard fought, four-set match. Huston and Harold Rundle, finalists in the city tourney, are scheduled to cross racquets Sunday at 3 p. m. on the Lincoln Tennis club courts.

Lincoln's State league Links were rained out of the scheduled opener with Grand Island Friday night at the Third City, while the Beatrice-Sioux Falls game on the Dakota diamond was called at the end of three innings because of rain.

LESLIE'S BOYS GRAB VICTORY

Mann-Coached Ball Club Wins Game and Heads For Europe.

The U. S. Baseball Congress team, selected after two weeks of intensive training at Landis Field, left Lincoln Saturday morning on the first leg of a tour which will take the players on a 15-game barnstorming trip in London and may include games in Belgium, Holland and France.

Floridans Steal Show.

Topping off the local workouts, the Congress nine made its only official appearance during the training period Friday night, trimming Robinsons by a 10-6 score. A pair of Florida youths—Milton "Lefty" Schemer of Miami and Mizell "Wahoo" Platt of West Palm Beach—divided honors for the winners.

Schemer, the starting pitcher, southpawed his way through the first five innings without allowing the slightest semblance of a base hit. In fact, not a single ball went out of the infield during his tenure on the mound. He fanned nine and the two runs off his delivery were directly charged to an error by John McDermott, Grand Island third-baseman.

Dean Finishes Job.

Platt, whose war whoops at bat and in left field, provided the color which had the crowd in an uproad, wielded a wicked bat, macing four hits in five trips to the platter.

Clyde "Diz" Dean, local sandlotter, pitched the last four innings for the Congress and was hit hard in the ninth, after working amazingly well for three frames. The score:

Hammering Hankus Steps Ahead Ruth's Previous Mark By Clouting His No. 35.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, July 30—(AP)—Along about this time every year, the figure filberts sharpen up their pencils, scribble numbers all over the nearest blank space and confidently conclude that Joe Zilch or Luke Glotz has a chance to bust Babe Ruth's 11-year-old record of 60 homers for one season.

It's September That Counts.

Baseball men tell you those filberts might just as well figure up their next year's income tax, because they'd come as close to the right answer. For, when you start monkeying with the Babe's all-time fence-busting high, the way to do it is to begin with the final month of the season—that gaudy September when he parked 17 among the cash customers in 30 days — and work back.

HANK GREENBERG

This year, however, the boys might have something there. Big Hankus Pankus Greenberg is on a spree. Right now he's 15 games in front of the Bam's record four-base pace.

Now, don't get the idea that big Hank is going to do it. The odds are all against him. He's a right-handed hitter, and American league parks are a lot friendlier to the fellows swinging from the south side of the plate. He still has to meet up with Ruth's merriest month. And, the Detroit lineup, as now constituted, offers opposition pitchers a chance to walk the six-foot-four Jewish jolter rather than let him tag one of their select offerings.

Thirty-five to Date.

On the other hand, there's Hank with 35 round-trip whacks to his credit already. He hit two more yesterday as the Tigers trampled the Athletics, 9-2—the third time in a week and the sixth time this season he has paired his pokes. He's getting hotter all the time, has clouted 13 this month to date, and is the only man to hammer one in every park in the league. Ruth belted his thirty-fifth in his 105th game. Greenber's 35th came in his 90th yesterday.

All in all, it's safe to say that if Hank can start September five homers in front of the Babe's pace, he has an even chance of wiping that mark off the books.

Yankees Squeeze Ahead.

Greenberg's heavy firing is taking a lot of the play away from the red hot fight between the Yankees and the Cleveland Indians. The Yanks remained on top by a slim game yesterday when a bad case of butter-fingers a-field on the part of the Chicago White Sox fielders gave the Yanks a 4-3 win. Hal Trosky poled out a pair of four-baggers as the Tribe trampled the Senators, 12-4.

Butter-fingers also beat the Chicago Cubs, as Billy Jurges' error enabled the Phillies to push over a run in the twelfth inning for a 5-4 decision.

Pirates Still Five Ahead.

The Pittsburgh Pirates stayed five games in front of the National league pack by topping the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-6, after kicking a five-run lead away.

The second place Giants came from way behind to tie in the seventh and beat the Reds, 5-4, in the ninth.

Debs Garms' payoff single drove in a pair of runs and the Boston Bees nipped the Cardinals, 2-1.

Legion Jr. Baseball.

Cornhusker grabbed the title in the National division of the Legion Junior baseball league Friday at Muny Field with a 9-3 win over Power and a forfeit over South Side Midgets. O'Shea-Rogers beat Traction, 12-11, while South Side beat Golds in the American division, 9-7. The scores:

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, July 30—(AP)—Note to Johnny Vander Meer: Everybody's got to get them ears pinned back sometime, Johnny...We can't get over seeing good old Brooklyn up there in fifth place—and hanging on...Correction: Nebraska's line will not be weak this fall, only green...They've yelled their heads off out there since we wrote that...Not even Head Coach Biff Jones will admit he has line troubles (and Biff never has been averse to doing a little moaning on the side when he had anything to moan about) ...So just put Nebraska down as O. K.

BALL players feel Mickey Cochrane would be taking a desperate chance in going behind the plate again... Eddie Berlinski, the North Carolina State star, is flirting with the Brooklyn football Dodgers... What's this about Ambers and Armstrong being put back to September?...The Cards are calling Roy Henshaw "Landis, jr."...It was so hot in New York this week the Cardinals were wishing they were back in St. Louis, which means it is plenty warm here.

EXTRA!...Even Brooklyn is going into the hall of fame ...They're going to put facsimiles of Johnny Vander Meer's two perfect games (one against the Brooks) in the baseball hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.... Yea, boy!...The other 3 a. m. someone called up Warren C. Giles and asked him if he was general manager of the Cincinnati Reds and when Giles said "yes," the guy solemnly inquired "why?" and hung up...Hank Gowdy, Red coach, has pitched in batting practice every day except one since the club began training at Tampa.

WALTER Cox, veteran Goshen trainer, may return to prominence as a Hambletonian threat this year...Back in 1928, Cox trained the first four horses to finish in the historic trotting event.. He drove and won with one of them...This year he has high hopes for a speedster named McLin...McLin romped into the role of a sleeper when he trimmed the favorite, Long Key, up in Massachusetts the other day...Al Hostak doesn't know it, but Minneapolis paper screamed: "Minnetown boy who went away and made good...When Hostak, who was born there, won one Minneapoles paper screamed: "Minneapolis has a boxing champion at last."

Mexicans Easy for Aussie Netsters

KANSAS CITY, July 30—(AP)—Australia needs only its expected victory in today's Davis cup doubles encounter with Mexico to earn the right to meet Japan in the American zone finals at Montreal next month. Three hours of listless tennis yesterday brought the Aussies a twin singles triumph.

Today the Australians send one of the world's strongest doubles teams, Adrian Quist and John Bromwich, against the inexperienced Eugenia Tapia and Daniel Hernandez.

Tapia lost to Bromwich yesterday, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, and Hernandez was beaten by Quist, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.
